

PRIZE CONTEST

Five dollars in gold is being offered for the best name proposed for the newspaper. Suggestions need not contain the word "Shoreham", but should identify the paper with semi-local surroundings such as the Sound or any other finite noun or adjective which makes fairly definite the locality.

All readers of the periodical are eligible to send in suggestions relative to a name, and should do so immediately, as the contest closes Wednesday, July 16, at 6 P. M. Judges of the most applicable name are to be Mrs. James Finn, Mr. Edward Stevens and the editor. All communications should be addressed in care of the editor and should include the suggested name and the name of the sender. The winner will be announced in next Friday's issue.

TRUSTEES' MEETING

An important meeting of the Trustees of the Village was announced yesterday by Wesley J. Sherman, Clerk. It will be held tomorrow, (Saturday) at the residence of Cary D. Waters, Mayor, Rt 2 p. m.

HELEN SCOTT WEDS DONALD EDWARDS

Bride and Groom Are Summer Residents of Village

Announcement has been made of the wedding of Helen Finn Scott to Donald V. Edwards, both of Shoreham and New York, in the Little Church Around the Corner, Tuesday, July 8. The maid of honor was a classmate of Miss Scott at Vassar in 1929, Miss Betty Boyle. Betty Edwards, the groom's sister, and Hilda Scott, sister of the bride were the other attendants.

Earl K. Smith was best man, and Kenneth Strickland and Arthur Target were ushers. Edwards is a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and is engaged in engineering in Newark, N. J.

Miss Scott is the daughter of Mrs. Miriam Finn Scott, noted educator, and the late Leroy Scott, popular novelist, short story writer, and late president of the Authors' Guild of America. Mr. Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton V. Edwards of 458 West 141st Street, New York City.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Edwards, Jr., are well known in Shoreham society, having resided here for a number of years. It has been reported that the bride and groom shortly will return to Shoreham.

Married Residents Drop Annual Ball Game to Juniors

By J. HAGENAH

Nosed out by one run, the married men again fell before the aggressive and their more youthful club members, by a score of 11 to 10.

As the teams took to the field, amid the honking of automobile horns and the ceaseless popping of fire-crackers, the following lined up:

|---------------|--------------|
| Married Men | Single Men |
| Jantzer P | Dickinson |
| Lynn C | W. Hagenah |
| E. Hagenah 1B | C. Pallister |
| Bates 2B | Nye |
| Byars 3B | D. Pallister |
| Cross SS | G. Frei |
| Van Arnam RF | Baker |
| Sloan CF | W. Oliver |
| Hughes LF | Goepfer |

Bates and Byars hit and played well for the married men as did the majority of the team, what with so infrequent practice. Possibly the presence of wives and children on the sidelines had much to do with it; father had to come somewhere near the standard he set for himself in his many stories to the family.

E. Hagenah started on the mound for the married men, but was relieved by Jantzer who hurled for the remainder of the game. Jantzer had his eyes open and kept control of his arm at all times. When he was hit, the ball arched up into the sun to the despair of the out-fielders.

Entire Community Takes Part in Traditional Independence Day Commemoration At Shoreham

Shoreham arose early to celebrate Independence Day by the annual parade starting at 10 a. m. at the foot of Woodville Road by the Inn. The village was aroused shortly after 9 o'clock by the megaphonic insistence of Mr. A. W. Varian, and it was estimated that fourteen automobiles took part in the parade.

In the lead was a company of children flourishing flags, while immediately behind came the cars of H. F. Hughes, Jack Varian, Van Arnam, David Baker, L. A. Eddy, F. O. Zenke, C. W. Schultze, Bugbee, J. C. Byers, C. V. Pallister, Nagel, Herbert Frei and a Ford and an Oakland of town guests whose names could not be ascertained.

To the ball field filed the procession, where other automobile loads of spectators soon assembled. Sides were chosen and it was learned that the married men of Shoreham were to oppose a team of single men. However there did not seem to be a sufficient number of married men, for they were forced to use two who were unable to bear that title.

Other sports results follow:
Track event for children under 10—first, Anne Waters; second, William Nusehaeson.

Track event for children over 10—first, David Scott; second, Paul Vermilne.

Bicycle race for children under 12—first, Tom Hughes; second, Janet Waters.

Bicycle race for children over 12—first, Otto Hagenah; second, Billy Sedgwick.

Hose contest—won by the Knights of the Red Garter, Robert Oliver, F. W. Finn, Vincent Sherman, John Hagenah and J. W. Haslett. A prize of ten dollars was awarded the winning five by Donald Upham.

Swimming race for children under 11—first, Jack Kohlman; second, Janet Waters.

Swimming race for children 11 to 14—first, Jim Cross; second, Lorraine Nye.

Swimming race open to all—first, Wesley Oliver; second, Gilbert Frei.

Demolition of Hotel Begun; Right Wing Built in 1800

A landmark of almost a century and a quarter's standing is in the process of demolition. Under orders from the Suffolk County Land Company, what has been known as Flavell's Shoreham Inn for the past ten years is being razed by Joseph Malduca, it was reported Wednesday. Work will be completed in January, 1931.

Built for a farm house in the early 1800's and converted into a hostelry thirty years ago, it has been run by over a half-dozen proprietors as a hotel at the end of Woodville Road, on several acres overlooking the shorefront. As a private residence in the beginning of the Nineteenth Century, it was owned by a family named Woodhull.

Altered and added to in 1900 it became the only inn in Shoreham. The doorway and right wing are the remaining vestiges of the age-old farm house. When it was decided to make plans for a hotel prints were drawn to add to the already standing edifice, by erecting an extensive right wing and by altering slightly the rear of the building. Work was carried on by Simon Peter Sax, who had built several other Shoreham houses, and who is said to have had the contract for the ice plant and for the Log Cabin clubhouse.

Early in the history of the Inn it was operated for Mrs. F. Warden and her husband by a man named Cushing. One time it was known as Wardencliff Inn, when the village was under the same title. In days gone by, when a Shoreham Club was not in existence, residents of the town convened at the Hotel of a Saturday evening for dancing and singing.

It is said that among those who frequented it at the week-end dances were William F. Fitzgerald and his

HOW BIG IS SHOREHAM?

Before initiating a newspaper in a community, various considerations must be deliberated and weighed, with an open mind toward advantages and hindrances, concerned. Placed in the fore of all others, the matter of news must be studied.

Shoreham, reported to be the smallest incorporated village in the United States, is virtually alive. And why should it have ceased respiration? The village is an organism. Groups in the community are the organs of the organism; individuals of each group are the tissues of the organs; functions of each individual constitute the body cells of the tissues and the will of each individual the equivalent of that thing called life.

With the wills of many individuals functioning diversely, with the groups of individuals operating for numerous purposes, is it possible at Shoreham has nothing worthwhile occurring continually? Where things are happening there must be people, and where there are people there must be news.

Records ought to be kept not only Trustees' meetings and village siness but also of social events which constitute the very life of the town. This, primarily, is the intent behind a newspaper: to chronicle all happenings of interest to contemporary and future residents.

Financial necessity dictates subscription and advertising rates. The latter bears the greater part of expense, and, indirectly, is responsible for the paper itself.

So, with the first issue of a local newspaper, an experiment has been made. Is Shoreham big enough and lively enough to carry a weekly publication through eight issues? The answer will reply.

NECESSARY HOLIDAY

Village spirit was manifested generously last week-end while Independence Day celebrations were in session. The turn-out of the police for the ball game, sports events, fireworks and dance was commendable. There was no reason attendance at all functions did not have been as great as it should have been.

All were worthwhile. Fourth-of-July events are one of the most inter-binding ties of which a town can boast. Were it not for Independence and Labor Days people would not know their-neighbors as well as they do. For it is when one is relaxed and happy that nature in common with all creates the most desirable feeling in mankind: friendship.

Games, even to the spectators, throw a cloth of amiability over the entire group in participation. There seems to be less of a reticence in the village. Holidays are the personification of that sensation one feels at the end of a deep sigh.

For the program of a week ago one has to thank the officials and citizens of Shoreham. They arranged it; they carried it through. With it, the atmosphere has cleared and is less strained, with an undercurrent of propitious good will rising to the surface.

SONG SERVICE

Sunday evenings in Shoreham have in past years been recognized by community song services at the Club House, and have been attended by the majority of the Village. It is considered that such a weekly function is not at all superfluous even with several churches of various denominations within driving distance of the town.

The origin of a Sunday song service, we believe, remains to the credit of a former property owner, Robert W. Smith, who not only led the services, but, in conjunction with his wife and son, accompanied the signing with violin, piano and clarinet.

Since that time Edward F. Stevens has been in charge of the hymn hour, and attendance has shown appreciable increase with the growth of the town. Popular comment calls for continuation of the services which have proven their worth as interdenominational Sabbath services.

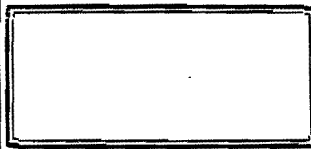

COMMUNITY ARTICLES

It will be the policy of this paper in the future to publish articles on the various points of interest in and near Shoreham. None of these articles is meant in any way to advertise the section or company which it describes, and therefore has not been paid for.

Reasons for publication of such articles are primarily and solely because of their paramount interest, and because of the manner in which they affect the community as public works. The first of the series will appear next week and will concern the Suffolk County Land Company. Any suggestions for further articles will be welcomed.

CLUB PREPARED FOR SEASON

Through the efficiency of Harry F. Hughes, president of the Club and Wesley J. Sherman, secretary-treasurer, the ballroom floor has been scraped, polished and waxed. The Clubhouse porch has also been fitted out with benches for the accommodation of guests.

With the birth of a Shoreham scandal sheet, this person was informed that he was going to be permitted to be funny to the extent of a column a week for eight weeks. That was a joke in itself. How can anybody be funny continuously for two months? Even a master of ceremonies is terrible after two minutes.

Nevertheless we signed the contract. The editor knows too much of our private life for us to refuse.

Regarding the Nolsy Fourth, why is it that every year the younger generation always garner sufficient sleep the night of the third to arise about 5 a. m. the next morning and disturb the dreams of us who have retired about twenty minutes previous? Probably they are paying us back for what we did to their own families not so many seasons back. It might even be a frame-up.

Then comes the final terminus to our sleep. "All Out for the Big Parade, Everybody Out for the Big Parade." One groans and rolls out. But ten minutes later he's laughing at other sleepy visages, which grin and show determination to celebrate traditionally in the ever Big Parade.

Probably it was a Shorehamite who suggested to a movie producer the name of that great war drama two years back.

The only difference between the two was the fact that the soldiers in the picture had no policeman stationed at the bridge to protect them from firecrackers.

And from the ball game we gather that James Cross, Jr., is a benedict.

This department is offering a cash prize of $5,000,000 in copper for a name to head the column. The restrictions for eligibility are simple:

1. Contestants must have been born February 30.
2. Contestants must be living in Suffolk County since the Middle Ages.
3. Suggestions must be written illegibly in beige ink on black paper.
4. Only one person fulfilling all requirements will receive the five million dollars. However, others may compete, but in case the winner does not fulfill all stipulations, he will not be awarded the prize. His suggestion, nevertheless, will be used as a roof for this column.

Our dying words are, "Contributions will be gracefully accepted."

ert Oliver and David Pallister. Canoe race for girls—Won by Barbara Eddy and Marian Zenke.

Continuing the tradition of many years, the evening saw a crowd of nearly three hundred assembled in and under the club house, on the bridge and beach and also on top of nearby sand cliffs, awaiting the yearly display of gunpowder and colored fire. At nine o'clock the first balloon was sent up from the beach, and then for over an hour skyrockets, Roman candles, pinwheels, flower pots and bombs cavorted over the shoreline.

Skyrockets with a triple burst of colored stars brought the most applause from the audience, in which adults outnumbered the children two to one. Automobiles lined village streets within a radius of two blocks of the beach, and club house parking space was taxed to the limit.

Bruce Mapes and his Tennesseans assumed the stage when the fireworks had terminated. From ten-thirty until midnight the club dance floor was filled to capacity while the porch was lined with spectators. Many guests of club members were reported to have been present at the celebration.

Dickinson and William Hagenah were the battery for the winners, both playing heady ball. Many bases were stolen during the course of the game. This may be accounted for by the fact that both catchers figured that the runner would not reach home for lack of consistent batting punch, or that they did not dare risk a peg to second.

Tap Classes Scheduled
Monday Nights At Club

Two classes in dancing, under the direction of Evelyn Jantzer, are scheduled for Monday evenings at the club. A children's class is the first, including instruction in ball room dancing and also primary steps in tap work. In the classes are Peggy Elliot, Barbara, Jane and Lois Eddy, Jack, Tom and Bob Hughes, Mary Mealla, Alan Warden, Janet and Anne Waters, Billy and Joy Sedgwick, Fred, Billy and Cornelia Jane Van Arnam, Jane and Peggy MacGahan, Lessie and Marian Zenke, Paul and Theresa Vermiline.

Following the class for the youngsters is an advanced group of tap dancers, which includes Mrs. H. F. Hughes, Mrs. MacGahan, the Misses Natalie and Eugenie Finn, Francis Kuchler, Dorothy Welman, Mary Cross, Jane Beckwith, Peggy Elliot and Marjorie Ewart.

SHOREHAM ITEMS

Follies Rehearsals Begun,
Directed by Evelyn Jantzer

Shoreham's most remarkable fete of last year is again under way. The Shoreham Follies, 1930 edition, has started under the competent supervision of Miss Evelyn Jantzer. The Shoreham Follies of last year was, perhaps, the most successful venture of the Entertainment Committee. It was made up of many solo and chorus dances. Last summer's production far surpassed even the highest expectations of any of its audience. But, even greater things are expected of this year's performance.

Last Sunday at three o'clock there gathered in the Club House, the most wonderful assemblage of beauty and talent that Shoreham has ever witnessed, to lay the foundation for this year's performance.

The next rehearsal is called for three o'clock this Sunday as many of the talent are here only for the week-end.

CHURCH SERVICES

It has been announced that Sunday services will be held throughout the summer at 9 a. m. in the Catholic Church by Shoreham station.

Having exhausted the originality of my Shoreham library to write the Minstrel Show of last year, I am throwing myself upon the mercy of my friends and enemies.

Please send me some jokes. New ones if you must, but the old ones will be oh, so happily received, as I have a great appreciation of the antique, and should be sorry to be made to feel badly over the ones I used last year.

Anonymous communications will be eagerly read, but I can not guarantee to use them in their entirety.
